In consideration of evidence needing to be legally admissible in a court of law, one is required to use a licensed Private Investigator to legally conduct your investigation. Choosing to do your own investigation may result in charges of stalking and/or harassment as well as being inadmissible in court. The law does not allow photos or video taken by cell phone or any other source to be valid in the court of law unless legally obtained.

What is the likelihood that your business will fall victim to an employee fraud scheme? Consider this: 75% of employees have stolen from their employer at least once, according to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber also found that up to 30% of business failures may be the result of employee fraud and abuse.
